Directions (19-26): Read the following passage and answer the given questions.

The COVID-19 pandemic not only reshaped the toy industry for children but also triggered an unexpected trend among adults — a growing attachment to soft toys. As lockdowns and social distancing measures confined people to their homes, many adults turned to soft toys as a source of emotional comfort and stress relief. The sense of familiarity and warmth offered by these toys provided a much-needed emotional anchor during uncertain times. The increased focus on mental health and self-care led to a noticeable rise in soft toy purchases among adults, alongside other comfort-focused items like weighted blankets, calming puzzles, and mindfulness books.

In 2020, toy sales increased by 16%, with soft toys playing a significant role in this growth—not only among children but also among adults. Adults began seeking ways to reconnect with their inner child, using soft toys as a tool for emotional regulation and relaxation. The tactile comfort of plush toys helped reduce anxiety, promote better sleep, and provide a sense of security. Educational toys and products supporting emotional well-being gained traction among adults as well, but soft toys stood out as a sign of emotional healing and personal comfort in an unpredictable environment.

Interestingly, even social media influencers have contributed to this trend. One popular influencer recently admitted feeling the pressure to _____ her collection of soft toys, worried that it might affect her online image. However, her audience rallied around her, encouraging her to embrace her love for soft toys and continue sharing her playful side. This highlights a broader shift in cultural attitudes, where emotional vulnerability and self-comfort are becoming more accepted and even celebrated.

Zahn, a behavioral expert, noted that the emotional attachment to soft toys reflects a deeper need for psychological stability. "The act of holding or hugging a soft toy activates the brain's calming response," Zahn explained. As the market stabilized in 2021, the demand for soft toys among adults remained strong due to their emotional value. The trend toward eco-friendly products also became evident, with adults showing increasing interest in soft toys made from sustainable materials.

Adults have increasingly started to book their toy purchases in advance to secure limited-edition and themed products during sales events. The growing influence of streaming platforms on product discovery and marketing has further shaped adult buying patterns. Soft toys have become a lasting symbol of emotional security and inner peace, reflecting a broader shift in how adults approach emotional well-being post-pandemic. The soft toy market, once dominated by children, now reflects a growing cultural acceptance of adults embracing their inner child.

Sol. Statement I is true because the passage mentions that adults used soft toys for emotional comfort and stress relief during the pandemic.

Statement II is false because Zahn predicted that the market would stabilize at low single digits, not decline sharply.

Statement III is false because the audience supported the influencer's decision to continue playing with soft toys.

S23. Ans.(a)

Sol. The word "book" in the passage refers to the act of reserving or arranging toy purchases in advance.

- Reserve – Correct synonym as it means to arrange in advance.
- Record – Incorrect as it refers to documenting information.
- Collect – Incorrect as it implies gathering, not arranging.
- Confirm – Incorrect as it refers to approving rather than reserving.
- Purchase – Incorrect as it refers to buying rather than reserving.

S24. Ans.(b)

Sol. The phrase "get rid of" means to remove or eliminate something, which fits the context of the influencer considering giving up her soft toys.

- Take away – Incorrect because it means to physically remove something, but lacks the sense of permanently eliminating it.
- Get rid of – Correct because it means to eliminate or discard something.
- Put away – Incorrect because it means to store something rather than discard it.
- Dispose off – Incorrect because the correct phrase is "dispose of" (without the extra 'f').
- Give away – Incorrect because it means to donate or hand over, not necessarily to eliminate.

S25. Ans.(d)

Sol. The word "sign" in the context of the passage refers to something that represents or indicates emotional security, making "symbol" the most appropriate synonym.

- Gesture – Incorrect because it refers to a physical movement to express meaning, not representation.
- Physical – Incorrect because it refers to tangible or material aspects, not symbolic meaning.
- Agreement – Incorrect because it refers to a formal understanding, not representation.
- Symbol – Correct because it refers to something that represents emotional security.
- Display – Incorrect because it refers to showing or exhibiting something, not representing a concept.

S26. Ans.(a)

Sol. The passage mentions that the shift toward emotional security and nostalgia drove adult interest in soft toys, indicating a change in consumer priorities.

- (b) Incorrect – Digital toys are not mentioned as reducing soft toy popularity.
- (c) Incorrect – The focus is on adult consumers, not parents influencing children.
- (d) Incorrect – Adults purchased soft toys throughout the year, not just during sales events.
- (e) Incorrect – Emotional value was emphasized over affordability.

S27. Ans.(b)

Sol. Correct Answer: (b) BAC

Explanation:

- The sentence discusses economic pressure due to monetary trends.
- The noun being described is "pressure."
- "Persistent" (B) means ongoing or continuous.
- "Inflationary" (A) means related to inflation, a specific economic condition.
- In adjective ordering, general descriptions (like duration or frequency) precede technical or type-based descriptors.
- Therefore, "persistent inflationary pressure" is the most logical and commonly used phrase.
- This structure reflects both natural collocation in economic writing and correct adjective sequencing.
- Final order: persistent (B) → inflationary (A) → pressure (C)
- Correct sequence: BAC

S28. Ans.(a)

Sol. Correct Answer: (a) ACB

Explanation:

- The noun being modified is “claims.”
- “Conflicting” (A) describes the nature of the claims — that they oppose one another.
- “Territorial” (C) defines the type of claims — related to land/borders.
- In English, adjectives indicating opinion or general nature precede those indicating type, category, or origin.
- Hence, “conflicting territorial claims” is the natural and correct expression used in political and diplomatic discussions.
- This order is frequently used in news articles covering boundary disputes and international conflicts.
- Final structure: conflicting (A) → territorial (C) → claims (B)
- Correct sequence: ACB

S29. Ans.(d)

Sol. Correct Answer: (d) BCA

Explanation:

- The noun being modified is “platforms.”
- “Unauthorized” (A) means not officially permitted or approved.
- “Third-party” (B) indicates an external entity not directly involved.
- Together, “unauthorized third-party platforms” is a standard phrase in tech and data privacy contexts.
- The correct adjective order in English: opinion/permission (B) → type or category (C) → noun (A)
- “Third-party unauthorized platforms” sounds awkward and is rarely used in formal contexts.
- Final construction: unauthorized (B) → third-party (C) → platforms (A)
- Correct sequence: BCA

S30. Ans.(d)

Sol. Correct Answer: (d) ABC

Explanation:

- The noun being described is “portrayal.”
- The descriptors are “raw” (B), “moving” (C), and “unflinchingly honest” (not labeled).
- The phrase uses parallel structure with “both... and...” — typically requiring two items, but a third is often added stylistically in journalism.
- All descriptors must be grammatically parallel (adjectives) and flow in increasing emotional intensity.
- “Raw” (B) implies unfiltered or direct; “moving” (C) suggests emotional impact.
- The sequence raw → moving → unflinchingly honest builds a natural progression of emotional tone.
- Final construction: portrayal (A) → raw (B) → moving (C)
- Correct sequence: ABC

S31. Ans.(a)

Sol. When two or more adjectives are used before a noun, they usually follow a specific and logical order. This is often remembered using the rule:

Opinion → Size → Age → Shape → Color → Origin → Material → Purpose → Noun

Let's categorize the adjectives in the sentence:

- sleek → opinion (describes its appearance/style)
- black → color
- armored → purpose (describes function – it's for protection)

Applying the rule, the adjectives must follow this order: opinion → color → purpose

Thus, it should be: sleek black armored vehicle.

Incorrect original phrase “black armored sleek” violates this natural flow and sounds awkward to native speakers. While it might be understandable, it's grammatically and stylistically off.

Therefore, the best replacement is option (a).

S32. Ans.(c)

Sol. Subjunctive mood is commonly used after certain verbs like suggest, propose, recommend, demand, insist, etc.

In such cases, we use the bare infinitive (base form) of the verb in the subordinate clause regardless of the subject.

Let's analyze:

- The main clause is: “The UN resolution proposed that...”
- After “proposed that”, the subjunctive mood requires the verb to stay in base form.

So:

- “improves” is incorrect – it's a third-person singular present form.
- “improve” is correct – it's the base form, as required in the subjunctive mood.

Correct sentence:

“The UN resolution proposed that the country improve its human rights record...”

Other options either break tense agreement (d), use modal verbs incorrectly (a), or double up the verb with subject-verb disagreement (b).

Hence, option (c) is grammatically and formally accurate.

S33. Ans.(d)

Sol. In English grammar:

- Direct questions use inversion (i.e., the verb comes before the subject).
- Indirect questions, on the other hand, do not use inversion. The subject precedes the verb.

Let's compare:

- “Why was the policy reversed” → correct for direct questions, e.g., “Why was the policy reversed?”
- “Why the policy was reversed” → correct for indirect questions, e.g., “He did not specify why the policy was reversed.”

Here, the sentence uses reported speech, not a direct question. Therefore, we need the subject-verb structure (the policy was) instead of verb-subject (was the policy).

Final corrected sentence:

“The minister did not specify why the policy was reversed despite public support.”

So, option (d) is the only one that fixes the structural error and aligns with the grammar of indirect speech.

S34. Ans. (d)

Sol. Options Analysis:

- (a) A-D: Incorrect. "Caught in the unexpected traffic jam, many first-time buyers felt overwhelmed" does not make logical sense.
- (b) B-E: Incorrect. "The new housing policy, they missed the crucial interview" does not make logical sense.
- (c) Both A-D and B-D: Incorrect. Neither pairing makes logical sense.
- (d) A-E: Correct. This pairing forms a meaningful sentence.
- (e) B-E and C-D: Incorrect. "B-E" does not make logical sense, though "C-D" does.

Final Answer:

The correct option is (d) A-E, as it forms a meaningful and grammatically correct sentence: "Caught in the unexpected traffic jam, they missed the crucial interview."

S35. Ans.(d)

Sol. Correct Usage:

(d) The washing machine tends to break down every time we overload it.

- "Break down" = to stop functioning, typically due to a mechanical issue.
- Used correctly here for a machine that malfunctions when overloaded.

Incorrect Usages:

- (a) "Break down the stairs" ✗ — Incorrect; one does not break down stairs to paint them. You might say "sand" or "repaint."
- (b) "Break down my friend at the airport" ✗ — Nonsensical; one cannot "break down" a person in this context. Perhaps meant "pick up" or "drop off."
- (c) "Break down the cake" ✗ — Not idiomatic. You cut or slice a cake; "break down" is not used for dividing food.

Questions asked in approximate value

So, let total amount invested by man = 45000 Rs.

Let amount invested in scheme A = x Rs

So, amount invested in scheme B = (45000 - x) Rs.

$$\text{Simple interest} = \frac{\text{Principle} \times \text{Rate of interest} \times \text{Time}}{100}$$

$$\text{ATQ, } \frac{x \times 7.5 \times 2}{(45000 - x) \times 8 \times 2} = \frac{15}{8}$$

$$8x + 16x = 720000$$

$$24x = 720000$$

$$x = 30000$$

$$\text{Required amount} = 45000 - 30000 = 15000 \text{ Rs}$$

S60. Ans.(b)

Sol. Questions asked in approximate value

So, investment of A = 8000 Rs.

Investment of B = 5000 Rs.

Profit share of B = 6000 Rs.

And profit share of A = 22000 - 6000 = 16000 Rs.

We know, total days in one year = 365 days

$$\text{ATQ, } \frac{8000 \times 365}{5000 \times (T+2)} = \frac{16000}{6000}$$

$$1095 = 5T + 10$$

$$5T = 1085$$

$$T = 217$$

So, his father's present age = $2x$ yrs

10 years ago, the ages would have been

$$2x - 10 = 3(x - 10)$$

$$2x - 10 = 3x - 30$$

$$x = 20$$

$$\text{Father present age} = 2 \times 20 = 40 \text{ years}$$

$$\text{Mother's present age} = 40 \times \frac{9}{8} = 45 \text{ years}$$

$$\text{Required difference} = 45 - 20 = 25 \text{ years}$$
